Two Nations Ready To Heap Honors On Fried And Crew

ITALY, U. S. LIKELY TO AWARD MEDALS

Welcome at New York To Be Last Word In Enthusiasm

ESCORT UP HARBOR

Ticker Tape Parade Up Broadway for Modest Seaman

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Two grateful nations today used preparations to heap honors upon Capt. George Fried and the crew of the liner America for their heroic feat in rescuing 32 men from the sinking Italian freighter Florida some 750 miles off the Virginia coast Wednesday night.

Medals of honor undoubtedly will be presented to the heroes by the United States and Italian governments. Meanwhile New York, the port to which the America is steaming and the home of the three men who played outstanding roles in the sea drama, is determined to give the seamen a welcome that will be the last word in enthusiasm.

It is expected that the welcome will surpass that given to Captain Price three years ago in recognition of his feat in saving the crew of the British freighter Anthracite in mid-Atlantic. An escort of ships up the harbor, with every harbor craft's siren shrieking and airplanes droning overhead, a parade from the Battery up Broadway in a shower of ticker tape and presentation of medals at city hall are in prospect for the conquerors of the grim Atlantic.

Captain Fried's courage, skill and determination are exceeded by his modesty and shyness, but the city has its heart set on giving the doughty little skipper and his companions a royal reception whether they like it or not.

This became known when the compilation of figures for the past two years, 1927 and 1928, were announced by the marriage license bureau and common pleas court.

At the same time it was shown that there was a decrease in the number of divorces and a slight increase in marriages last year, as compared with 1927. The figures announced are:

CLUB CAMPAIGNS FOR SANE TRAFFIC LIGHTS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Contending that millions of dollars are wasted in delays caused by unnecessary traffic lights in small towns and villages, Duane Dungan, president of the Hoosier Motor Club, has begun a campaign to restrict the signals to congested areas.

"Where there is only light traffic, the signals are not only unnecessary, but are costly in loss of time and annoyance to car owners," Dungan said. "Authorities in smaller cities and towns all over the country have overburdened the taxpayers by installing unnecessary stop and go signs."

CHILD CAUGHT COLD; PNEUMONIA FEARED

Worried Mother Grateful as Doctor Shows How to Give Quick Relief at Home

No longer is it necessary to stand by helplessly when children's colds bring fear of pneumonia. For how-often physicians now recommend to mothers a pleasant home treatment for colds—and hundreds of Marion children have been given the same quick, sure relief that came to the little daughter of Mrs. Robt. Gordon.

Little Estelle caught a severe cold while out riding. On the third day the child coughed so deep Mrs. Gordon feared pneumonia and called her doctor, who advised double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—the pleasantly flavored mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients which have relieved even the most extreme children's cases in the hospital.

By night the child felt like playing for the first time in several days. The next morning she looked more like herself—and by the following day, doctors report, all traces of the cold were gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician. Ayer's Pectoral is made of ingredients as safe as the purest food—recommended for children by the foremost cold clinics. Endorsed by physicians and druggists.

DECISION REVERSED IN GUARDS' TRIAL

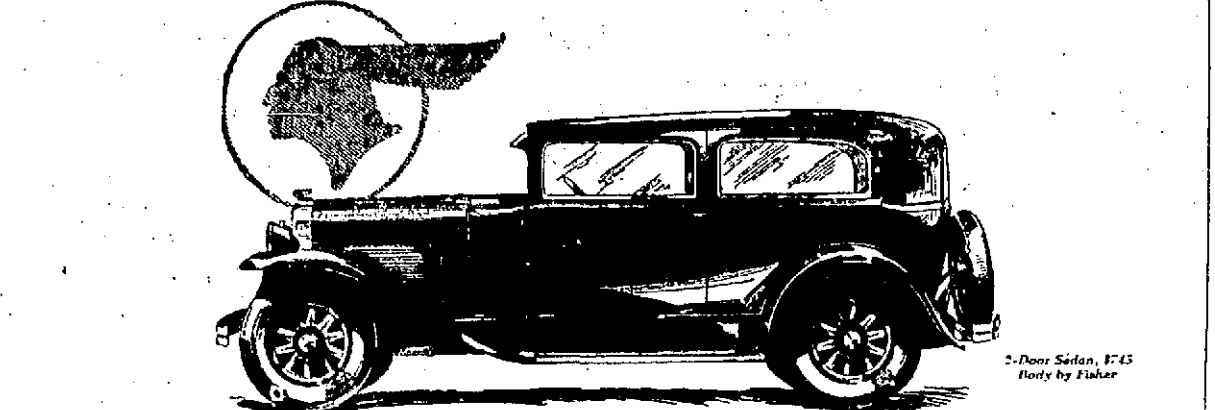

Judge Discharges Man, but Reconsiders Action After Reading Opinion

ELMHURST, N. Y., Jan. 25.—An atmosphere of Tennessee prevailed in federal court today at the resumption of the trial of Boutwell Frank L. Beck and Surfman Glenn Jennings for the fatal shooting last May of Jacob D. Hanson, Niagara Falls Elk official.

Beck and his attorney, United States Attorney Richard H. Templeton, were somewhat "peered" at Judge John H. Hazel and the judge himself was a bit flustered as the result of his action yesterday in reversing his decision after he had discharged Beck as a defendant.

Judge Hazel granted Templeton's motion to dismiss the indictment against Beck and then came the dramatic announcement that he had reconsidered his decision after reading the opinion of a federal judge in a similar case. This opinion stated that the coast guards could not use arms at will, and that before firing on suspects the guardmen should "plainly see or have excellent reason to believe that the automobiles contain bombs brought by it over the border."

Hanson, believing that the coast guardmen who signaled him to stop were bandits, stepped on the accelerator of his car and was shot.

CALEDONIA, Jan. 23.—Joyous parents took the joy out of the ride for a quintet of Caledonia high school girls when they journeyed to Mt. While taking in the sights of the Morrow county capital, the car skidded into a telephone pole breaking one of the rear wheels and doing other damage.

After a conference with school authorities and Mr. Mitchell the outlook for the quietest is that funds for five cream sodas and other sweets will be scarce for some time.

SORE THROAT? Gargle with Listerine

Kills germs in 15 seconds

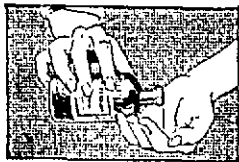

Don't let a sore throat get serious. It's a germ condition that ought to be whipped early.

At the first sign of trouble, gargle with full strength Listerine. Your improvement ought to be rapid. If it is not, consult your doctor.

Listerine, full strength, is effective against infections because it is powerful against germs. It kills even the virulent B. Typhosus (typhoid) germ in 15 seconds, as shown by repeated tests in three great laboratories.

We have a helpful free book,

Personal Hygiene, that is yours for the asking. Write Dept. S-44, Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo.

And for COLDS

Colds start when germs are carried to the mouth on food. By using Listerine on the hands before every meal, you attack such germs and break the risk of cold. Remember this, mothers, when handling baby's food.

Hunsaker, pastor of the Lutheran church, Mrs. Schaefer will give a talk on "The Most Important of All" and Mr. Snyder will give a talk on "The National of America."

Completing the program will be the presentation of an instrumental trio composed of Florence Davis, Esther Kimmel and Helen Kimmel.

A community dinner at 12 o'clock will follow the Saturday morning session, which will convene at 9:30 o'clock, with a community sing in charge of Mr. Jones. The Rev. W. Schaefer will conduct the prayer service and Beddie Huch will offer a reading. A piano duet will be given by Helen Kimmel and Evelyn Chalmers.

Afternoon Session Mrs. Schaefer and Mr. Snyder will preside for the community sing, which will mark the opening of the Saturday afternoon session. The invocation will be spoken by the Rev. M. M. Braden, pastor of the Baptist church and Joseph Reynolds will contribute a harmonica number. Institute at Waldo Outstanding Success What was declared to be the best attended Farmers' Institute ever held at Waldo closed last night with a musical show presented by members of the Young Men's Farming Club. The play was presented to defray the expense of the institute.

The play is to be presented again tonight, since many were turned away last night when the auditorium was filled to capacity.

The institute drew large attendance at every session. Other residents of the village say that attendance broke all previous records.

The grain show, which has recently been adopted as a feature of farm institutes, was one of the contributing factors to the success of the institute, leaders of the institute said today. Entries at the show were judged by J. C. McLaughlin of the Ohio State University. McLaughlin declared the show to be of unusual quality.

Before the close of the institute plans were made for the meeting next year by the election of officers. H. J. Miller was named president, H. J. Miller, vice president and A. W. Anderson, secretary and treasurer.

STATE LEGISLATORS REST UNTIL MONDAY

House To Act on Bellevue Crash Next Week

COLUMBUS, S. Jan. 23.—Having introduced 230 bills during the past three weeks, Ohio legislators today were enjoying their weekend recess. The senate and house will reconvene at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

Of the bills already introduced, 134 were offered in the house and 92 in the senate.

The house is scheduled to take action early next week relative to the Ehrlich resolution providing for the appointment of three senators and three house members, who as a joint legislative committee, would be empowered to investigate the recent grade crossing disaster near Bellevue, determine the cause, or causes, for the catastrophe and suggest means of averting similar disasters.

The Myers bill, requiring inspection of railroad cars to be brought to a full stop before passing over dangerous grade crossings will come up for second reading and reference to a committee in the house Monday or Tuesday.

This measure would authorize the highway department to erect and maintain permanent signs, or detours, at, or near, such grade crossings.

PEARCE ACQUITTED OF VOTE FRAUD CHARGE

Investigation in Cuyahoga County To Continue, Prosecutor Says

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23.—Attorney General Gilbert Bettman was defeated today after a jury of five women and seven men had voted to acquit Herman Pearce in the Cuyahoga county vote fraud trials.

"The vote fraud investigation is continuing," he declared vigorously. Pearce was found not guilty last night by the jury which had deliberated more than 31 hours.

Pearce was charged with changing the marks on 11 ballots during last August's primary in an election booth where he was an official. One woman juror, Mrs. Sophie D. Pine, denied when the jury returned last night, that the verdict was hers. She replied when questioned by the court, that she had not been convinced one way or the other but had finally decided she would agree to a verdict of not guilty.

The second trial for three other primary election officials, the first of which resulted in a disagreement, will open Feb. 4, Bettman said.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

Husbands—How and Made SOME men are "born" husbands. They are "made" husbands. Some men are "born" husbands. They are "made" husbands.

The "born" husband is marked from his cradle, and has no chance of escape. He gravitates toward matrimony as surely as the needle is attracted to the magnet.

He doesn't even "put up a fight" against marriage. He doesn't have to be adjusted or reconciled. He just falls up naturally, like a jack-in-the-box, into the domestic grooves—and STAYS PUT.

He is a glorious BLESSING to any woman who is so lucky as to draw him into the Great Beyond—even though his wife goes to her grave never knowing how good Providence and Lady Luck have been to her!

The man who "makes" the married state is never such a household joy or domestic genius, but, on the other hand, he deserves a lot more credit. For it requires all sorts of self-control and self-denial to play the role of husband naturally and gracefully, when your talents do not run that way.

At all times, a "self-made" husband, several years to get over his bachelor habits, settle down and wear the mantle of the married man; but if he comes here and there, even the stream, it is worth waiting for. And the day will surely come, when he will acquire "that married look," and be as resigned to spending his evenings on the hearth as the family cat.

The man who has had the rule of husband, "thrust upon him" is a "married bachelor" in the end of his days.

Some men never were intended for marriage; and no matter how often they try it, it never "takes."

The "married bachelor" is filled with the carefree, irresponsible spirit of Pan—which can never be tamed by any woman. His ways, his habits, his opinions and his pastimes are not altered one jot or tittle by marriage. It rolls right off him like water off a duck's back.

No woman is the sun, moon and stars of his existence—they are all merely the footlights. Why he ever married, nobody knows—least of all, himself! But the woman who marries him and tries to make a household of him, must learn for adventure.

OSCAR UNDERWOOD DIES IN VIRGINIA

Former Senator and Presidential Candidate Ill Since Christmas

Underwood's name became a byword to the nation in 1921 when, throughout the turbulent Madison Square Convention with the 101 ballots were held out with the still undecided information that "Mr. Underwood" would be elected.

The former senator was 63 years old. He was born in Louisville, Ky., spent his boyhood in Minnesota, got his law at the University of Virginia, and found his career in Birmingham.

In 1901, he was elected to congress, never to leave until his voluntary retirement at the end of the last term.

Underwood's name came to the fore when he was elected to the McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft administrations. Underwood was chosen Democratic floor leader of the house. Then followed his first great legislative achievement—the Culliver tariff bill, which stood until 1920 and the return of the Republicans.

The judiciary committee of the Nebraska house of representatives has killed the bill prohibiting newspapers from publishing any information about any of the various state departments without first securing the consent of the department's head. That bill, aside from many objections to it, was so manifestly possible for use as a cloak of official rottenness that it was doomed to defeat.

Witnesses in the Williamson county liquor conspiracy trial on in East St. Louis, Illinois, manifestly are doing their utmost to cause former State's Attorney Arlie O. Rowell to recall that old one to the effect that your sins will find you out.

Aha! It's out at last. Dr. Elustein has spoken. The laws of gravitation and electromagnetism are one and the same. Now we'll know what did it the next time a brick topples off a high building and hits us on the head.

As we have heretofore remarked, this old life of ours is full of compensations. Of course the passengers on the President Garfield were somewhat worried when it hit that coral reef, but the vessel having been refloated and on its way once more, the around-the-world trippers may congratulate themselves on a couple of days' stay at Nassau, at the Dollar line's expense, not on their itinerary.

One hundred and fifty supporters of Leon Trotsky have been arrested in Russia charged with a plot to wreck Dictator Stalin's so-called government. Mr. Trotsky may yet see the day when he will regret over having given up soup-hoarding on New York's East Side to go in for "Liberty and Equality."

French and Italian casinos are carrying on a war by taking turn-about in raising their gambling limits. The most a sucker could lose on one hand at Monte Carlo, yesterday, was $2,340, but by going to San Remo, twenty miles away across the Italian border, he could lose $5,000. Naturally, travelers with more money than sense are seeking the place where they can the more quickly establish a financial and mental parity.

Some members of congress are seriously discussing the taking away of a number of the best-located piers in New York City, now held by foreign lines, and turning them over to lines of this country. Without going into the advisability of such a course, it may be said that United States steamship lines will never attain the patronage they should have so long as the public has to cross over to Hoboken to take them, as it does in most cases.

Very Pleasant Reading.

The announcement carried in the new columns of the Star, a day or two ago, telling of the decision of the Young Men's Christian association directorate to get behind the community chest movement made very pleasant reading to those who have been advocating the community chest idea.

The Young Men's Christian association in the very nature of things has more at stake in becoming a champion of the community chest plan, probably, than any other organization, and if it can see its way to support of the movement it is hard to understand how the other organizations which would be affected by the adoption of the plan can hold aloof and fail to give their endorsements.

Very wisely, we believe, the Young Men's Christian association directorate has blazed the way which, if followed by the other organizations which are interested, will give the city a community chest, which has come to be considered by the population centers, which have adopted the chest plan, the ideal way for doing away with the repeated drives and campaigns for funds.

So many are the drives for funds under the conditions which obtain at present and have obtained for years that the people of this community have come to look upon them as impositions. Their very multiplicity makes them that, as they needlessly take the time of those making the drive and also the time of those approached for funds.

We believe it would prove a great relief to our people to meet the call of one campaign and have the matter out of the way and ended for the remainder of the year.

Two Anniversaries Recalled.

The rescuing of the crew of thirty-one of the Italian freighter, Florida, adds another splendid achievement to the long list already credited to American seamanship, and gives Captain George Fried of the United States liner, America, the distinction of having effected the rescue of the crews of two disabled vessels under conditions which make such accomplishments seemingly impossible.

It was just three years ago that Captain Fried, then in command of the President Roosevelt, took off the crew of the British freighter, Antioch, under conditions very similar to those which marked the present work of rescue. In each case he was compelled to battle a mighty storm and send his vessel against heavy winds and terrific seas to reach the scene and then exercise the highest degree of skill to crown his dangerous enterprise with accomplishment.

As a matter of fact, the crew of the Antioch was rescued at the cost of the lives of two of his own men.

It is an illuminative fact that, while the America was over 350 miles distant from the Florida when the latter's SOS call was received and two other vessels were less than 150 miles away, it was the America which located the stricken vessel, the other two having failed to find her. So severe was the storm that the speed of the America was reduced almost a half by its force and it took her thirty-one hours to reach the Florida, but Captain Fried evidently did what the captain of the other two vessels failed to do; he took into consideration that she was drifting much as did the ill-fated Vestris and located her.

It is something of a coincidence that the SOS call of the Florida marked the twentieth anniversary of the first sea tragedy in which the wireless played a major part and that in that another Italian vessel of the same name played a part.

It was in this tragedy of a score of years ago that Jack Binn stuck to his post as wireless operator in the face of danger and established a tradition of the sea which has since been upheld by almost countless wireless operators.

The White Star liner, Republic, on which Binn was operating the wireless, sailed from New York, January 23, with 161 passengers aboard on a Mediterranean cruise and was off Nantucket light when, in a dense fog, she was hit amidship and almost cut in twain by the Lloyd Lullin liner, Florida, with 300 passengers aboard.

"Binn," according to a subsequent story of his exploit, "was taking a message from a hand station of the Marconi company when the crash came, flooding the engine-room and killing six persons. Binn cut in with the distress call of the day 'CQD,' which since has been superseded by the modern SOS.

"CQ" was, and still is, the call meaning 'all points listen.' The 'D' was added to mean danger. The CQD was described by newspapers at the time as 'the general ambulance call of the sea.'

"As soon as Binn had given his distress call and told the position of the Republic there began the first of those wireless-directed general rescues to the rescue which have become a well known since.

"Half a dozen ships turned from their courses to go to the Republic's aid and Binn led them on their way with his wireless. The condition of the Republic was so serious that the passengers were transferred to the Florida, itself stove in at the bow and leaking."

The White Star liner, Baltic, was the first vessel to reach the scene, and, as those who have been reading "Twenty Years Ago" on this page have been reminded, took off the passengers of both vessels and part of the crew of the Republic, the remainder of the crew being taken off by the government cutter, Gresham. The Republic sank while being towed to port.

From that day twenty years ago to the present, the wireless has played a prominent part at sea, day and night, in sunshine and in storm, in peace and in war, and been the means of saving literally thousands of human lives. Even in the face of Jack Binn's exploit, was there anything like full comprehension, twenty years ago, of how much the wireless would grow to mean to those who go to sea?

Remote Infections Responsible.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

As we go through life we pick up one disease after another. If you are thirty or forty years of age and have never been sick, you are lucky. If you are fifty or sixty and have escaped disease, it is little short of a miracle.

Of course a lot of the ailments we have are of little consequence. They may annoy us but rarely are serious. Swelling of the joints, or of a single joint, is a condition often met. Whether or not this is an important symptom depends on its cause.

What are the causes of swollen joints? There are a number. The first that comes to my mind is an injury of some sort. An accidental blow on the hand, the hip, the knee, or the elbow, may be followed by swelling.

Following the injury there is pain, perhaps pronounced pain. Pretty soon the joint is swollen and red. With rest and simple treatment, the symptoms disappear. If they do not, more energetic treatment will be necessary.

It is not difficult to understand the nature of a swelling due to an injury. But it isn't so easy to figure out what is wrong when some underlying disease is responsible for the trouble. There are such diseases and it may be that their first sign is a swelling of one or more of the joints.

Among such diseases are tuberculosis, rheumatism, scurvy, and pus formation in remote parts of the body. So far as rheumatism is concerned, we can not disregard the probability that a localized infection somewhere is at the root of the difficulty.

Joint tuberculosis is entirely different from tuberculosis of the lungs, the usual form of the disease. It is not accompanied by the cough, pain in the chest and other familiar symptoms of "T. B.," as it is called by almost everybody.

Of course, there may be some fever, loss of weight, paleness of the skin, the common signs of a mild form of tuberculosis. But inability to use the joint is a pretty good sign something has happened with its function and that something may be tuberculosis.

Redness, swelling, heat and pain in one of the joints are the traditional symptoms of acute rheumatic infection. The chronic type is quite lacking in these pronounced disturbances. In this form there may be swelling and tenderness on handling but in pain of any consequence, and no redness.

Bad teeth, pus-infected gums, a running ear, disease of the tonsils, of the intestinal tract or gall bladder, may be responsible for such cases. Swollen and distorted joints, for instance of the finger, may be traced to one or another of these local troubles.

It is important to take care of the swollen joint and attempt to keep it from growing worse. It is even more important to discover the seat of the original trouble. By getting rid of the remote cause the joint will get well and there will be no further trouble—trouble sure to result if there is neglect.

JAPAN'S ENDURING GRIEVANCE.

For practically the fifth year in succession the Japanese government has taken occasion to remind the United States that the American immigration law of 1924 still rankles in Nippon's breast.

Addressing the diet at Tokyo yesterday, Baron Tanaka, in the dual capacity of premier and foreign minister, included in the annual review of the international situation the now familiar viewpoint of his government and people.

After alluding to "the ever-strengthening bond of economic and political friendship" with the United States, Baron Tanaka said: "But I wish to add that the matter of immigration law, which has been pending for the past few years, has not yet been composed. A satisfactory solution of a problem like this must, after all, depend upon mutual good understanding, which I am fully confident is growing year after year."

It would be difficult to conceive of a more statesmanlike utterance. It is dignified. It is restrained. It breathes a quiet, but unmistakable determination on day to see righted what the Japanese look upon as a wrong. But it is conspicuously devoid of saber rattling. It is couched in terms designed to appeal to the American sense of justice.

In the days immediately following enactment by congress of the so-called exclusion act of 1924, Japanese national pride was wounded to a degree which visibly beleaguered the international horizon.

War, sooner or later, was the recourse to which, many thought, the proud, militant empire of the East might resort, to avenge the injustice of which Japanese held themselves to be a victim at our hands. That dread prospect, happily, is definitely banished.

It will be recalled that both President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes advised congress in vain to permit the state department to negotiate another immigration agreement with Japan. But there ensued an indiscreet passage in Ambassador Hiram's letter to Mr. Hughes, which Mr. Lodge and other senate leaders interpreted as a threat, and the exclusion provision thereupon was assured of adoption.

Japan does not seek to have the bars of restrictive immigration let down in the United States. Probably she would be satisfied with quota status, which would admit, it has been estimated, fewer than 200 of her people a year. What Nippon does crave is some nation by the United States which will remove from her citizens the ignominious stigma of being classed as undesirable, fifth-class immigrants.

Until "mutual good understanding" paves the way to some adjustment of it, it is plain from Baron Tanaka's statement that Japan will regard the exclusion law as an enduring grievance.—Washington Star, January 23.

THE GOVERNOR IS RIGHT.
Insistent as he is upon the successful outcome of a proposal to put up a state office building in Columbus, Governor Cooper declares he will oppose any legislation which makes mandatory the purchase of any specific piece of real estate for this purpose.

The governor is an experienced real estate operator. He knows that the moment the information becomes public that the state must acquire certain land, the price of it will be increased out of all relation to its real value. The state would involve certain land owners to hold it up.

There are better ways of doing business and something must be done about this state office building proposal. The old capitol building, which suffices for the purposes of the legislature, the supreme court and a few offices, was outgrown by the most of the state departments many years ago.

State offices, which ought to be concentrated, are scattered all over Columbus. That plan, or lack of plan, is expensive and inefficient and inconvenient for state officials and the people who have business relations with them.

No well organized private business could afford to continue such an arrangement and the taxpayers who foot the state's bills are becoming impatient about it. They are insistent that the legislature now in session and other officials who have to do with this matter, must quit quarreling over details of location and construction and agree upon the erection of a modern office structure close to the magnificently-located old capitol building in the heart of Columbus.—Toledo Blade.

McIntyre on Vacation.

BY O. O. MCINTYRE.

Paris, Jan. 25.—My first impression of Paris years ago was the obvious fact that the city was a vast, glittering, and somewhat the sweet trouble of exultant childhood, of an irresponsible light-hearted people at play. Subsequent visits lessened this, until today it was one of haunting melancholy.

Paris is pleasantly appealing, but to me infinitely sad. Americans who have lived here long and love the city often feel the same way. The visitor for the first time is not touched by this breath of long ago—of the picturesque, farthings, hoop-skirted ladies and illustrious kings gathered in the dust.

The stranger observes only the glittering bistros, the perky midnights, the gay singing of the boulevards, the ripple of flashy shops and the charm of the sidewalk tables. Yet to me this vitality is of the despairing. "Eat, drink and be merry" sort, an effort always to shake off the shadows.

To enjoy Paris to the fullest, one should never peer into its past. I was reminded of this sharply today in crossing beautiful Place de la Concorde.

Yet before I had reached the other side, there came a memory of old ladies knitting as bloody heads fell into the guillotine baskets. Always—the shadows. One should not perhaps be affected by such memories, but most of us are, and the longer one lingers the more pronounced they become. Voice—Get out then!

The engaging simplicity—the naïveté—of the French, too, somehow has a tinge of pathos. A venerable hotel valet de chambre on my last visit showed me in the shy manner of the bourgeoisie a three-masted ship he was fashioning inside of a bottle for a grandchild.

I simulated enthusiasm, and two hours after my arrival there came a gentle rap on the door. It was the old valet, who with trembling hands unwound many strips of cloth and displayed the almost completed ship. All his leisure has been devoted to this bauble. "It is all I can leave him," he said, with moving tenderness.

Paris speaks a different language to every one. She—Paris—is never "it"—is like Caesar's wife, all things to all men. I have been lyricizing its gloom, with all the drinking bazaar there are open, too, and into the room came Jimmie James, Hank Wales and Raymond Carroll, the newspaper correspondents. I spoke of my reaction—and if looks could kill! They declared it was the only city in which they never became depressed. And went laughing down the hall, singing something about "the senile old fossil from Rouen," and calling back from the elevator: "Keep out of the night air and take care of your rickshaws!"

There is much in France, however, to banish reminiscent gloom. After nine months, an increasing prosperity is plainly noticeable. It is considered today the most prosperous of all Europe. While this is the dull, after-holiday season, shops and cafes are filled. There is a pro-war dressiness. And prices for Americans are sky high, often higher than in New York. Outrageous is the word!

I have a habit of burying my head in the bed pillow at night in the manner of an ostrich. Some day I suppose I'll suffocate, and then where will you be? In my hotel the pillows are encased in a heavy fish-net-like covering, and all day I've been traipsing around looking for all the world like a waffle gone wrong.

In the hotel gardens some stone masons are having lunch. Each has a chunk of varnished bread, yellow rat (ray cheese and a dragon of red wine. Nearby are school boys in their perillous or short black capes—like so many crows—just watching. It is a phase of French curiosity to watch people eat. Pedestrians stop before you at sidewalk tables and frankly peer into your dishes. And one snooping son-of-a-gun at an adjoining table at the Châtelaine des Lilas a night last winter eyed a gorgeous plum on my plate rapaciously, then reached over and snatched it.

And I'll kiss a pig smack on the snout if my mother-in-law and I today didn't see a man stop on the Rue Royale, extract a vanity case from his pocket, hold the mirror to his face and use a powder puff. I never felt so mainly and virile before.—Copyright, 1929, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

ON THE Streets of Marion WITH STAR STAFF

What an Appetite!

A NOTHER inhabitant of our fair city has been different from the others, and with gastronomic achievement. The well-known gladiator of the Marion Star, who has been in the city for several days ago, according to reports coming from this business place, and calmly ordered a light lunch of 18 fried eggs, two pieces of ham, one cup of coffee, four glasses of water, and six pieces of bread thickly covered with butter for his noontime luncheon.

He claims that this was only a lunch and expressed the desire that some day he might come into the restaurant when he felt hungry. If he ever does the Hamburg King management will be able to retire.

But, the strange part of this marathon diner's story is that he desires to wager any man, woman or child in Marion that he can sit down at any given time and eat no fewer than 48 fried eggs at that single sitting. Four dozen hen fruit!! And he says that will just appease his hunger.

The gastronomic phenom is a butcher employed in one of the local meat shops, according to information coming from the South Main st. restaurant. The restaurant owner de-

Defying Winter

SPRING is come! And you don't believe it, of course. Tuesday, Jan. 22, the reporter strolled into one of our leading drygoods stores and what should he see but the decorator of windows and store interiors treating a sprightly girl down the aisles and to the basement store, underneath a hat of summer's vintage. Needless to say he was the center of attraction for all eyes.

Embarrassing Moment

SOME persons are fairly bubbling over with friendliness and affability. Others are just the opposite in temperament and often pass their closest acquaintances by with scarcely a nod of the head.

One of the exceptionally friendly type was a little too enthusiastic with his spirit of good fellowship here a few days ago.

Catching sight of a well-known Marion woman near the courthouse he rushed up to her, with face wreathed in smiles and hand extended.

"Well, how are you? I surely am glad to see you looking so well!" or some other greeting of equal warmth came forth as he gave his supposed acquaintance a handshake that would have done credit to a professional candidate for office.

Although the man was a total stranger to her, the woman figuring in the incident was equal to the occasion and returned the salutation with the assurance that she "never felt better in her life."

It was then that the friendly fellow took a closer look and discovered that he was face to face with a total stranger. His beaming smile speedily vanished, his countenance took on a resolute hue and without word of explanation or apology he turned and effected a retreat around the corner of a nearby building.

The woman, who derived more than ordinary entertainment from the experience, says that her only complaint against the stranger is for his failure to offer an explanation. Now she is bound to carry with her a feeling of discontent and curiosity until she ascertains his name and also finds out just who he thought she was. Mistaken identity, she realizes, may be or may not be a compliment.

In First Rank

MARION continues to stay in the "limelight" as far as activities in state organizations are concerned.

Yesterday's newspaper reports carried announcements of two local citizens having been elected to offices at the head of important state groups.

Judge Charles L. Justice of the district court of appeals was officially counted in as grand chancellor of the Ohio grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, and Millard Hunt was made president of the Ohio Builders' Supply association.

The election of Judge Justice had been forecast for several years, due to the fact that he was scheduled to be advanced through the various subordinate grand lodge offices to the highest station. The official count was merely the final formality in making him grand chancellor prior to installation, which will take place in September.

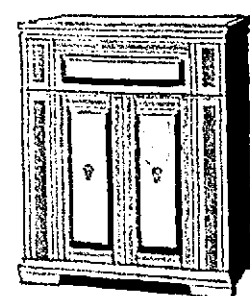

The organization headed by Mr. Hunt is one of the largest business men's associations in the state, being made up of building supply dealers from all sections of Ohio. Until this time the presidency has been filled mainly by men from the larger cities.

Not in the last five years or more has Marion been without representation in the official corps of various state organizations and during most of this time one or more local citizens have held the main executive positions. Judge Justice was in this list, having been president of the state association of Elks two years ago.

In two weeks' time my skin was as clear and smooth as ever."

Cleveland Orchestra To OVER WJZ NETWORK Present Program Suunday

A symphony orchestra, placed high in the list of the 12 best orchestras in the United States, will be the treat offered radio listeners who appreciate the better class of music in the broadcast over the WJZ network, stations of the National Broadcasting Co. at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Of more than passing interest to Obolans is the fact that the musical organization is none other than the Cleveland Symphony under the direction of Nikolai Sokoloff.

BROADCAST RIGHTS FOR MUSIC RUN HIGH

An idea of the high cost of putting the best programs on the air can be obtained from the announcement that $7,000 in addition to the regular network fee was paid for the privilege of using George Gerhart's latest musical composition, "An American in Paris."

The number will be a part of an all-Gershwin program to be broadcast as the 1st. Thursday concert over the WJZ network of the NBC system at 7:30 o'clock next Wednesday night. Other numbers by Gershwin include excerpts from his famous "Rhapsody in Blue" and a medley of miscellaneous dance tunes and show numbers that have been popular hits.

PLACING OF SPARKS IMPORTANT FOR SUCCESS

If you are a new set owner you must realize that the proper location of a radio set in the home has much to do with the quality reproduction delivered by the loud speaker. There are a few simple suggestions prepared by radio engineers that bring out the best tone qualities.

Don't put down the volume too far for it automatically cuts down the quality of reproduction. For that reason, if the home arrangement permits it is best to place the console in a room adjacent to the one in which most of the listening will be done.

Never place a console or portable speaker too close to a wall. The reasons involve the reflection of sound waves and the possibility of sound being placed just as far away from the set as the cord will permit.

The best way to determine the best location for the set is by the trial and error method.

MARION TO HOLD CASH AGRICULTURAL EXHIBIT

What the Marion Star has expected during 1929 will be forecast by W. H. Jarvis, secretary of agriculture and chairman of the exhibit, at a meeting of the board of directors of the Marion Star on Monday afternoon.

Senator Charles J. McNary, Oregon, and Congressman Gilbert H. Hanger, parents of the famous relief bill that bears their names, will also be heard.

MUSICAL HIGHLIGHTS OF O'HENRY FATHER

Something of a line on it in radio circles, in this week's biographical program to be heard at 8 o'clock Sunday night over the WJZ network of the NBC system when a half-hour musical biography of the famous short story writer, O'Henry, will be broadcast.

Let us add a radio presentation of the life scene of the drama, "Miss Jimmie Valentine," which led for a time one of O'Henry's stories featured the program. Music played a dramatic role in the life of the writer who sang, thus in a quarter of a century, a life of a writer.

CRUEL NEURITIS

PUT TO FLIGHT BY NEW KONJOLA

MISS STELLA WARE

Those who may have the groundless belief that there is no escape from the dread clutch of neuritis, will find great encouragement in the fact that Konjola is winning victories after victory over this torturing ailment. Read of the happy and surprising experience of Miss Stella Ware, a Runkle at Ashland, Ohio, who had with this super compound.

"After three years of doctoring I found at last the right medicine in Konjola," she declares. "Among the changes I tried in an effort to get relief from neuritis was a series of treatments. No results. The pains were so fierce that when they came on I was as one paralyzed. I was completely worn out and nervous and exhausted all the time. The splendid endorsements of Konjola led me to give this new medicine a trial. The results were simply irrefragable. While taking the first bottle I gained four pounds. Within three weeks every sign of neuritis was gone. My nerves and other organs were refreshed and I am today in the best general health I have had in years."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 known extracts from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a normal healthy action. Meditations

OF A

Married Woman

—BY HELEN ROWLAND—

FOLISHING OFF MARRIAGE

ENGLISHMEN may have the best table manners in the world and Frenchmen the best drawing room manners—but the blue ribbon for the best divorce manners goes to the American man.

When you read all the details of an English divorce you positively glow with pride at the realization of how much more gracefully and politely almost any American husband would have done it.

Would he have packed his trunk permanent with one of the house and thrown her out after her? He would not.

He would have helped her pack her trunk, ordered the express man, and rolled up her steamer rug.

He would have carried her Pekin, down to the car and made it comfortable under the rug on the back seat.

He would have fastened the lid on her beauty cream found her smiling, salted, wrapped her portrait satin shoes in tissue paper, and placed the latest popular novel in her hand bag.

He would have promised to engage the best lawyers for her to see that her mail was forwarded and to keep the thing out of the papers.

He would have provided her with all the new magazines bought her railway ticket for her new life. He had her favorite brand of cigarettes tipped the porter and told him to look after the lady in lower seven.

He might have telegraphed ahead to order the florist to have her favorite flowers in her room when she arrived or telephoned long distance to engage her a suite with southern exposure and a good view.

HEATS the American man for you!

Whatever he does he does it.

NAME OFFICERS

WITH LUNA B. DUTTON

CARL VAN VECCHIEN has chosen the title for his entertaining story of Hollywood from the canibalistic bankers of the female spider to the male and female spiders. Not that all the lovely maidens of the silver screen will be so lucky as to find a husband who would like to be in the same way as the spider. But before finishing the story, the author really has such intentions in regard to the Hollywood spider. But, one is really in sympathy with him because he is so honest.

"The Professor's Wife,"

A College Story

A SUCCESSION of incidents which make a cur in any college town provide two hours of entertainment between the covers of Herz's book. The story is a series of incidents which deal with the life of Helen, a woman wife of the head of the business department. The fair Helen has a weakness for flouting, everybody whose possibility she can captivate and her flouting is an amusing, as they are inevitable. She thinks Helen is greater than Shakespeare because she has the light touch that Shakespeare never had.

To Print Story

In Braille Type

THE biography of Laura Bridgman, which Laura D. Richards has written is to be printed in Braille type for the blind by the Perkins Institute of Watertown, Mass. It was at this institution that Laura Bridgman received the training, which made her world famous and her story now is available to others afflicted like herself, who offer an encouragement and reassurance that can not be easily imagined.

To an earlier generation Laura Bridgman's name was a household word for she was so much a prodigy of Helen Keller and she was the first blind deaf mute successfully taught at the Massachusetts Institute for the Blind by the great pioneer educator of the blind, Dr. Samuel C. Howe. Her story is told by straightforward in Laura Bridgman, the story of an Opened Door.

HE SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief in 2 Months — Doctor Recommended It

Constipation is dreaded not only for its own insidious self, but because of the many serious conditions and diseases it causes. Mr. Lind was a sufferer—but read how he found relief.

"For the past 10 years I have suffered from piles. At times I have been unable to work. I have tried suppositories, ointments, etc., but to no avail.

"Two months ago my wife called my attention to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I began taking it regularly. Immediately the pain and annoyance from the piles was relieved. I found that it regularizes very little ALL-BRAN to give nature a fair chance to effect a cure." WALTER J. LIND, R. 2, Box 137, Appleton, Wis.

Don't neglect constipation. At any time its poisons may take terrible toll from your health and well-being. Protect yourself. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoons daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, natural relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipe on the package. Results guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, and dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

Officials Consider More Rigid Rules for Medics

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University
COLUMBUS, Jan. 25.—A more rigid consideration of the qualifications of students seeking admission to the College of Medicine at Ohio State University may take place in the near future if the plans of officials of that college materialize. It was announced at the University recently.

Need for more stringent application requirements was voiced recently when it was revealed that the college has become so much greater than the department can handle.

Approximately 100 are admitted annually out of a number of applicants usually three times as great. It was said. Most students entering have degrees, officials maintain, while others have high scholastic standing and fulfill other requirements. The department is capable of handling about 325 students and the total enrollment for all classes in the college during the fall term was 330.

Only the best students are now selected. Besides standing high in scholarship, they must rate well in character and general fitness for the profession under the plan now being used by Dean H. J. Upham.

The Ohio State University College of Medicine is one of the few universities in the country which does not have post-graduate courses in medicine.

Only students who are residents of Ohio are now admitted to the medical college because of the large number of applicants for admission.

LAST OF 3 FUGITIVES FROM SING SING TAKEN

OSBURNING, N. Y., Jan. 25.—George Price, last of the trio of convicts who made a spectacular escape from Sing Sing prison on Tuesday night, was captured without a struggle yesterday at Scarborough.

The keepers, who had dodged behind a stone fence, waited until Price drew near, and then pounced on him. "Well, you got me," was all that Price said.

Foods like this must taste as good as they look—

You can't depend on frosting and flavoring alone to make foods taste as good as they should. You must use a flour that will give them the right flavor. Use Pillsbury's Best Flour—it is made only from certain kinds of carefully selected, full-flavored wheat. This is an important part of baking success—the food editors of leading magazines, women who have spent their lives studying baking, say that flour has a lot to do with the flavor of foods.

Here's the secret of really fine baking—get a sack of Pillsbury's Best Flour from your grocer and use it—you'll find a delicate, unmistakably richer flavor in everything you bake!

Eggs on Toast!

A sight to warm the cockles of a man's heart when he comes downstairs in the morning! A slice of toasted HOLSUM Bread, acting as a raft for a fresh, tempting egg, is the center of attraction. Flanking it on either side is a cup of aromatic coffee, and a morning paper to set his mind in motion.

When you remove the waxed wrapper that keeps this bread fresh for your table, you'll find a plump, tempting, golden-brown loaf that puts a new edge on your appetite. And when you cut into this loaf, you'll be delighted with its firm, even texture. You can slice it thin, and the bread won't crumble or break.

Order a loaf of HOLSUM from your grocer today. He has it fresh, clean and wholesome for you.

There's a Difference in Bread

So—don't say bread—say
